Online Library Conversations

With Joseph Brodsky (1940-1996) is unquestionably the greatest poet to emerge from postwar Russia and one of the great minds of the last century. After his expulsion from the Soviet Union in 1972, Brodsky
transformed himself from a stunned and

unprepared

émigré into, as he himself termed it, "a

Russian poet, an English essayist,

and, of course, an American citizen."

In interviews from

1972 to 1995,

Joseph Brodsky:

With just ten weeks before his death. In talks, he calibrates the process of his remarkable reinvention from a brilliant, brash, but decidedly provincial Leningrad poet to an international man of letters and an erudite Nobel Prize laureate. Brodsky's poetry earned him a

Online Library Conversations

Nobel, and his essays won him awards and international acclaim. This volume shows that there was a third medium, in addition to poetry and essays, in which Brodsky excelled--the interview. Although he said that "in principle prose is simply spilling some beans, which poetry sort of contains in a tight pod," he nevertheless emerges as an extraordinary and inventive conversationalist. This volume includes not only his notable interviews that helped consolidate

international

reputation but also

early and hard-to-

journals that have since disappeared.

--from "Star of the Nativity" Joseph Brodsky, who jokingly referred to himself as "a Christian by correspondence," endeavored from the time he "first
took to writing
poems seriously,"
to write a poem for every Christmas.

He said in an interview: "What is remarkable about Christmas? The fact that what we're dealing with here is the calculation of life--or, at the very least, existence--in the consciousness of an individual, a specific individual." He continued, "I liked that concentration of everything in one place-- which is what you have in that cave scene."

There resulted a remarkable
sequence of poems
about time, eternity, and love, spanning a lifetime of metaphysical reflection and formal invention. In
