A Joseph Campbell Companion: Reflections on the Art of ...

Art is a reflection of society. Because the arts include various branches of painting, music, literature, dance and other creative activity, they have a significant impact on society, religion, and education, thus deserve the same reverence bestowed upon the sciences. As society expands and grows, art changes to reflect its new developments.

March 31st 2016. The art of Self - Reflectio n. S elf-reflection can simply be understood as a mirror image of oneself. This image is not what is perceived by others but rather perceived by our own selves. It is simply a moment where we sit with ourselves, think about what we are doing and then behave accordingly.

The art of Self - Reflection

As is well known from real life, the reflected image in a horizontal mirror is effectively reflected on a local horizontal plane, so that the left of the original remains on the left of the reflection, but the reflected image is inverted (the top of the reflection shows the lowest part of the original); that is unlike reflections in a mirror positioned vertically, such as those in which we inspect our face, shave, or apply make-up, which (fortuitously) remain uninverted. Whether a mirror is ...
